Dixon city primary vote is very light

A very light voter turnout was indicated in today's city primary elections with 638 ballots cast by noon today. This compares with 1,089 votes cast at noon in the last city primary election Feb. 23, 1971. Projecting the turnout, based upon the previous election results, the total vote count could reach nearly 2,000, still 1,200 less than the 3,207 votes cast in the previous election.

The largest drop in voter turnout was noted in Precinct 7, Washington School, which encompasses all of the city north of the river and east of Jefferson Avenue. A drop of 104 voters was indicated there.

All other precincts were far below the 1971 totals.

The following precinct breakdown was tabulated at noon today with the 1971 noon election results in parentheses:

Precinct 1	116 (173)
Precinct 2	72 (115)
Precinct 3	53 (73)
Precinct 4	48 (114)

Precinct 5	119 (187)
Precinct 6	110 (200)
Precinct 7	120 (224)

Four candidates are vying for the mayoral post, including incumbent Warren Walder, Mrs. Irene Hayes, William Naylor and Patrick Hess. Their number will be reduced to two in today's voting with the top vote-getters appearing on the April 15 ballot.

In the commissioners race, nine candidates will be reduced to eight, two for each post to be decided in April. Candidates for commissioner include Jim G. Burke, Walter Lohse, Arthur Tofte and James Dishman, all incumbents, and Henry Osback, Thomas Densmore, Rich Arnold, J. Gary Cooper and Wesley McClanahan.

Polls will remain open until 6 p.m. tonight. Paper ballots will be tabulated at City Hall with results expected before 10 p.m.

A precinct by precinct breakdown of election results will appear in Wednesday's Telegraph.

Late delivery is blamed for voting machine troubles

Richard McKay, president, Frank Thornber Co., Chicago, maker of the video voter machines used in the Nov. 5 election in Lee County, blamed their malfunctioning on the late delivery of the machines, lack of instructions and power failures.

The use of the voting machines here was the first trial for them, McKay said, and told members of the Executive Committee of the County Board, on Monday, the company had anticipated some modifications would be necessary and would have paid for them.

Specifically, McKay blamed the malfunctioning of the machines on the fact they were supposed to be shipped with 100 hours of use, which usually reveals any problem. Some machines were shipped and put in use here without the 100 hours' testing.

After the sad experience in the election, the County Board voted to cancel the purchase contract for 32 voting machines and 18 data centers and ordered them shipped back to the company.

The county claimed 299 votes were lost in the election. The board also told State's Atty. Patrick Ward to inform the company the county feels the contract was breached by the malfunctioning of the machines and to negotiate a settlement price with the company.

McKay told the committee the company will agree to settle for $19,558.

The county has paid nothing but according to the original contract was to make payment of $16,000 annually.

The county board will decide whether to accept the settlement, at the March 11 meeting.

McKay said the machines used here next will be tried out in Woodstock and Streamwood in April.

Ward readying plan to overhaul zoning procedures

In the wake of the overturn of the rezoning by the Lee County Board of the property to be included in the Lake Arrowhead development, State's Atty. Patrick Ward on Monday said he plans to submit to the county board a program to bring the county's procedures into compliance with the court decision.

Circuit Court Judge Lawrence Lenz, Oregon, Friday ruled the rezoning approved by the county board on Sept. 11, 1973, be voided because the practices used in processing the petition for rezoning was not in accordance with state law.

After the board approved the rezoning of 1,585 acres in Willow Creek Township, between U.S. 30 and Paw Paw, as residential development of Lake Arrowhead, Dr. Robert Purdy, Shabbona, who has property near the proposed project, entered a suit to restrain the county from permitting the project to be developed.

Lenz commented Lee County's zoning ordinance is "vague and inconsistent regarding filing of protests to rezoning changes."

The judge based his ruling on practices which he said are not

WASHINGTON (AP) — School board officials may be sued for damages in some circumstances for violating the constitutional rights of students, the Supreme Court ruled today.

"A school board member is not immune from liability for damages ... if he knew or reasonably should have known that the action he took within his sphere of official responsibility would violate the constitutional rights of the student affected," or if he took the action with the malicious intention to cause a deprivation of constitutional rights or other injury to the student," Justice Byron R. White said for the court.

The court added that an award for damages should be made "only if the school board member has acted with such an impermissible motivation or with disregard of the student's clearly established constitutional rights that his action cannot reasonably be characterized as being in good faith."

Despite this qualification, four justices said the decision "appears to impose a higher standard of care upon public school officials ... than that heretofore required of any other official."

"In view of today's decision significantly enhancing the possibility of personal liability, one must wonder whether qualified persons will continue in the desired numbers to volunteer for service in public education,"

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. said for the four justices.

Powell, a former school board member, was joined by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Harry A. Blackmun and William H. Rehnquist.

In other action today, the court:

—Gave prosecutors new guidelines governing their appeal of a trial judge's orders dismissing criminal charges against defendants. The thrust of the two companion decisions was that a prosecutor may not appeal a judge's decision dismissing criminal charges where there is even a remote chance that the action could subject the defendant to a second trial and thus place him in double jeopardy for the same alleged offense.

—Upheld 4 to 4 a U.S. Court of Claims decision allowing two government medical libraries to fill requests for articles in journals by photocopying the entire articles and handing them out free without paying royalties. The tie vote does not set a precedent for similar cases, however.

—Told a lower federal court to consider whether a New Jersey broadcaster's suit for the right to broadcast lottery information has become moot because of a new federal law allowing such broadcasts under certain circumstances.

Dollar slumps to new lows

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The U.S. dollar sagged to new lows in European exchanges today as ministers of oil producing nations met to consider several proposals to exclude the dollar from oil trading.

It reached record lows in early trading in Amsterdam and Brussels, a 17-month low in Paris and a 1974-75 low in Frankfurt. It was only slightly above its historic floor in relation to the Swiss franc.

Several oil exporting states, concerned that their petrodollars are being lost through inflation and the decline of the dollar, want another way to price oil. Currency dealers said such a move would be a blow to the dollar and that speculation about it caused a large part of recent dollar selling.

Iranian Interior Minister Jamshid Amouzegar told newsmen before the meeting in Vienna that one possibility was tying the price of oil to special drawing rights — SDRs — of the International Monetary Fund. SDRs are based on the value of 16 major currencies.

Amouzegar said, however, he would oppose any move within the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise oil prices.

"We have already decided to freeze the prices until the end of September, and we are not going back on that promise," he said.

Other OPEC proposals include one from Kuwait to increase prices in proportion to the dollar's decline in relation to the five strongest European currencies and the Japanese yen. Algeria and Iraq propose scrapping the dollar for a stronger, unspecified single currency.

The dollar opened at 2.286 marks in Frankfurt, but bounced up to 2.295 after the Bundesbank bought an estimated $20 million. Lows of 2.36 guilders and 34.135 Belgian francs were reached in early trading in Amsterdam and Brussels, down from 2.3715 guilders and 34.29 francs at Monday's close.

In Zurich, the dollar was 2.405 Swiss francs in early trading, down 24 centimes from Monday's close, despite buying by the Swiss state bank. In London, the British pound jumped 1 1/4 cents at the start of trading to $2.4315.

The price of gold rose 75 cents to $186.25 an ounce in Zurich and 50 cents in London to the same level at the morning fixing.

Iran is also plugging at the OPEC meeting its proposal to tie the price of oil to an inflation index based on the cost to the oil countries of the major commodities they buy from the industrial West.

But the proposal likely to get the most attention — and cause the most controversy — is the recommendation by Kuwait, Algeria and Iran that the 13 nations all cut production.

The aim would be to shore up the present prices by mopping up the glut of oil caused by the world economic slowdown and conservation measures. Reportedly a majority of the countries support the proposal. But it is likely to be rejected by several governments who need every bit of oil revenue they can get.

The Arab Press Service in Beirut reported 10 days ago that production was already down from 10 to 20 per cent in five major members of OPEC.

Train crash near Ashton

ASHTON — Two Chicago-Northwestern railroad trains crashed head-on early this morning, just east of the Sohigro Grain Elevator in Ashton.

One train, which was eastbound, and another train going west, crashed and resulted in a derailment of about 15 freight cars hauling coal, according to railroad officials.

After an investigation, the westbound train revealed a broken axle.

No other details were available.

Governor's Action Office in Dixon

A representative of the Governor's Action Office will be in Dixon from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday on the first floor of the Cith Hall building, to help solve problems local citizens may have with state government.

The Monday visit will be the first of regular visits on the first and third Mondays of every month.

"Our primary purpose will be to cut red tape within state government," Charles Stierman, representative for the Dixon area, said. "But we will also handle other types of problems and complaints that citizens or community groups may have."

The Governor's Action Office is the branch of the Governor's Office dealing with volunteer resources and community relations. The Northern Illinois office, located in Rockford, is charged with covering 17 counties, including Lee County.

There is also a toll-free number to Springfield for people who are not able to meet with a community representative. That number is 1-800-252-8967.

Some of the major caseload areas include public aid, unemployment compensation, mental health, environmental protection, and conservation.

"Recently we have had hundreds of problems with unemployment compensation because the checks are running very slow," Stierman said. "We only become involved in cases when the checks are over two weeks late. Because of the present economic situation we are only taking the worst cases."

"License plates were a real problem a month ago but everyone should have them by now. If someone is still missing them they should feel free to contact us," Stierman said.

Cut in his defense proposals called gamble by President Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a ringing plea for support of his defense budget, President Ford told a group of women's patriotic organizations today that to cut his defense proposals would be to "gamble with our future, our security, our freedom."

At an unannounced appearance before some 850 delegates to the 23 annual Women's Forum on National Security, the President said America's peace depends on a strong defense.

Ford dropped in on the group after delivering a speech to the National Bicentennial Conference next door in the Washington Hilton Hotel. The women's forum is made up of 17 organizations, including ladies auxiliaries of veterans groups.

Ford met with a delegation of Boy Scouts at the White House after driving to the Hilton to address federal and state officials who are planning the nation's 200th birthday for 1976.

Ford told the bicentennial group that solving the nation's serious economic problems will require the same tenacity and hard work it took to win the American Revolution.

"In unhappy times and unpopular wars, Americans accept the challenge. No generation of Americans has failed to accept the necessary sacrifices of the day. I am convinced we will not fail ourselves or future generations."

Referring to the energy and economic problems as "of very serious proportions," the President said "new perceptions and new priorities are required to meet new difficulties."

He said the solutions to those problems "will require the same hard work and tenacity required to wage a successful revolution, establish a working government, carve a civilization out of wilderness, produce the greatest industrial machine ever, and develop the highest standard of living of any nation in the world."

To honor the past, "we must hand this magnificent experiment in self-government on to future generations, free and strong," he said.

Ford's speech, at the Washington Hilton Hotel, was the start of a long day for the chief executive, who scheduled a trip later to Hollywood, Fla., to address a White House conference on economy and energy and to have dinner with mayors from the southeastern region.

He was to stay overnight in Hollywood and to have breakfast Wednesday with news media representatives, hold a news conference, and play 18 holes of golf in a national celebrity tournament with Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason and golfing champion Jack Nicklaus.

While the attention of most Americans is focused now on a record deficit federal budget, inflation and unemployment, we should be saying "pass the SALT" when it comes to the proposed Strategic Arms Limitation agreement announced in Vladivostok last fall by President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

Embedded in this proposal are some inequalities so far as our defense is concerned that need a good deal more public review than they've received.

In 1972, SALT I concluded with the United States conceding that the USSR would continue to have more land-based missiles than we and could catch up or surpass us in the number of submarine-based missiles. Congress, worried that the agreement precluded development of effective antimissiles by either side, attached a rider to the agreement requiring that in the future equality of strength be maintained. President Nixon agreed and Gerald Ford—then Congressman Ford—voted for it.

The preliminary agreement announced by Mr. Ford and Chairman Brezhnev at Vladivostok covered all the major weapons systems: sea and land-based missiles and long-range bombers. It set a ceiling of 2,400 vehicles for each side, 1,320 of which could have multiple warheads (MIRVs) independently targeted, thus making them much more destructive.

At first glance that seems equal. The agreement equalizes the number of missiles. It also freezes missile sizes to current dimensions, and that's where we should take a second look. The Soviets already have missiles much greater in size than ours.

Given the multiplier effect of the MIRVs, the Soviets will be able to deliver five to ten times as many hydrogen bombs as we can. The significance of this is mind-numbing. Sec-month. All mail subscriptions must be paid in advance. This newspaper is a member of the Associated Press which is entitled to use for republication all news dispatches, local, state and national. 'Pass the SALT' retary of Defense James Schlesinger has conceded this would give the USSR the ability to deliver a successful "first strike," knocking out our land-based missiles and bombers, leaving only our sea-based weapons to defend us. This is hardly equality.

Only an on-site inspection program (omitted from the agreement) would permit us to know for sure how many Soviet missiles had been MIRVed.

On the other hand, the public nature of our defense expenditures is such that the Soviets would have no trouble keeping score on us and making sure we stick to our part of the bargain. More "equality."

The proposed agreement reportedly says that either side may deploy as many "cruise missiles" as it likes, so long as their range doesn't exceed 600 miles, the limit of such missiles already in Soviet service. The United States has developed cruise missiles with a range of 1,000 miles. So, the Soviets could keep their current fleet and add as many more as they want while we would not be permitted to deploy our longer range missiles. This "equality" is beginning to look like Horse & Rabbit Stew—one horse to one rabbit.

Some say when this much destructive power is involved numbers don't really matter.

Why is it, then, that invariably these same people are the ones who are most anxious to limit numbers by means of SALT agreements? A balance in destructive power matters greatly, both factually and psychologically.

So far, we've been sitting "below the salt" at the bargaining table. It's time for the President to order his bargainers to insist on real equality. It's nice to come home from one of these meetings with a deal. It makes the negotiators feel good. But, we'd better realize there is a considerable difference between making a deal and being taken in by one.

Washington favorite whipping boys

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)— There is in this town a most virulent hate for business and industry—within Congress, the bureaucracy and among commentators.

Much has been said about the oil lobby, the business lobby, the munitions and aerospace lobbies. Little has been reported about the other side of the coin—those so filled with antagonism for business and profits they would peak private industry into the doldrums.

These haters, it may be said parenthetically, are not members of a subversive party, or plotters against the establishment. They are, in the main, honest, decent hardworking citizens who love their country, their wives and children. But they hate.

They hate so enthusiastically, in fact, that they have been nitpicking and creating—step-by-step—a plethora of impossible-to-conform-to regulations that could strangle productive growth and extend the length and depth of this recession beyond all reason.

For in the end, whatever we may think of business and businessmen, we are dependent on industry to increase the production of energy and other products sufficiently to end the recession and to afford those regular wage gains necessary to keep improving the living standards of the average man and to ease the shortages which have led to inflation.

And we are dependent on business to find jobs for the millions of unemployed.

For industry to accomplish these things, it must have the earnings to attract the capital required for investing in equipment necessary for increasing productivity, for expanding output and for meeting the anti-pollution standards our laws now require.

The varied difficulties businessmen and farmers have in getting the capital they require to expand, and the economic barriers to profits which discourage expansion have been brought out time and again. But the critical barrier is a lack of confidence spreading through wide sections of industry and agriculture, if the men I've met with are representative. That lack of confidence has been generated in no mean measure by the growing power in Washington, the detailed interjection of the government into business day-to-day operations and by the "anti" attitudes businessmen face in this city.

With all this hate, paradoxically, there's a pervading fear in government today of allowing major companies to go broke. Contracts and other assistance are all too frequently given to companies whose performance has been poor and withheld from more efficient producers, thus pulling the best down toward the level of the worst.

This column is not going to glorify businessmen. They are men like those in government, in the press and in Congress. Statistics indicate that top business leadership these days comes, by and large, from the same colleges as the leadership in government and the academic world. Like us all, businessmen have biases and weaknesses; they see the world through their own set of glasses.

Certainly there are lobbyists. Certainly the fixers get to some men in Capitol Hill and in the executive. Certainly the huge sums given by some special interest and business groups are suspicious on the face and downright smelly when investigated in detail.

For these reasons, a healthy government skepticism is in order. Persistent investigations are required to root out inequities and criminal acts—including price gouging. But the raging vilifications I've heard in high places in this town go beyond all reason. For these same weaknesses in industry show up in equally obnoxious ways in the Congress, in the bureaucracy and in the nonprofit public interest groups. I have heard lies as atrocious in one place as the other. We are dealing with men, not saints.

'Gas-and-go'

Those nasty oil companies are at it again.

Now the complaint is that they are pushing a program of doing away with the traditional full-service station, which provides tune-ups, wheel alignments and all kinds of automotive work as well as gasoline.

Taking its place are a growing number of "gas-and-go" facilities where you get gas and oil and maybe your windshield cleaned if the attendant likes you, but nothing else.

That may be only the beginning. Judging from a report in Electronics magazine, the human gas pump jockey may be headed for obsolescence.

Take it from Here

REFLECTIONS— Property taxes are a rather dry subject, except when property owners get tax bills or when politicians on the campaign trail dispense rhetoric about this form of taxation.

Everyone dislikes the tax; many agree it is outdated and should be revised or replaced; but none is sure just what to do.

Government has added to some of the confusion and negative reaction to property taxes.

Prior to 1971, state law required the state revenue director to equalize and assess taxable property at its full cash value. But this edict was never carried out to the letter of the law, since assessments in counties ranged from a high of 50 to 55 per cent of fair market value to as low as 20 per cent.

The Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois, in a move to block any court action demanding the assessment be of full market value, in 1971 addressed the problem to legislators and achieved passage of a bill making the assessment and equalization at 50 per cent of full cash value.

This removed the possibility of property owners receiving staggeringly high tax bills but in many parts of the state counties did not comply with the lowered equalized percentage.

To correct this inequity, for many years the Revenue Department and now the Department of Local Government Affairs have issued a numerical factor called a multiplier to bring underassessed counties up to the average level.

The size of multipliers was frozen in 1973 to prevent increases in taxes which would have resulted in many counties if proper multipliers had been assigned for those counties that had not updated their assessment levels as property values increased.

Now a Lake County court decision has been handed down which could mean large increases in property tax bills for residents in counties which were lagging in bringing assessments up to between 40 and 50 per cent of fair value.

The Lake County episode came about when that county's supervisor of assessment slapped a multiplier on a township whose assessments were only 26½ per cent of full value to equalize them with the rest of Lake County.

The township sued the county and Circuit Judge Harry Strouse ordered all Lake County assessments to be set at 26½ per cent of fair cash value.

The Department of Local Government Affairs dropped a multiplier of 1.5 against Lake County assessments to controvert the court's orders and to equalize their assessments with other counties in the state.

The judge took the matter under advisement and recently ruled that all Lake County assessment shall be 42 per cent of fair value.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott has been asked to appeal the Lake County decision by the Department of Local Government but as yet has taken no action.

Whether Judge Strouse's ruling is overturned or not will make little or no difference to Lee, Ogle and Bureau County taxpayers because assessments in these counties are 50 per cent or more than fair cash value.

In Lake County, where the ruckus started, in 1972 the average assessment was 34 per cent of fair market value.

Thirty-two of the 102 counties in Illinois in 1972 had assessments of 50 per cent of fair value and four had assessments of more than 50 per cent.

Lee and Bureau Counties are two of the four with more than 50 per cent and Ogle County is included among the 32 with 50 per cent of full value assessments.

There is a new move with considerable support which is another attempt to equalize property assessment among all state property owners.

Tax rates may properly vary between taxpayers in counties and in other counties but the assessments should be equalized if all property owners are to be fairly treated.

The Joint Subcommittee to Study the Property Tax will recommend to the General Assembly the state law be amended to require that property be assessed at 40 per cent of fair cash value for taxation.

The Committee for Tax Reform of the DuPage County Board has gone on record favoring assessment be reduced to 40 per cent of fair market value.

The Special Committee on Property Tax Reform for Zone 4 of the Illinois Association of County Board Members has also voted to recommend the assessment level of property be lowered to 40 per cent.

Finally, at the last meeting of Zone 4 of the IACBM, it was voted to support lowering the assessment level to 40 per cent.

Preparing for an army of unemployed

WASHINGTON (LENS)— As more and more people join the unemployment lines the federal government is having to supplement the state-run unemployment insurance schemes.

The Administration expects that over $13 billion will be distributed in unemployment benefits to as many as 13 million beneficiaries during this fiscal year.

Others argue that even this estimate is conservative. President Gerald Ford, for one, showed that he holds little faith in a fall in the unemployment figures by setting aside $17.5 billion for unemployment benefits in his budget for the year beginning in July—that is, more than triple the $5.2 billion spent in 1974.

Already an extra $3 billion has been appropriated for the depleted unemployment insurance coffers under two pieces of emergency legislation, which President Ford signed on Dec. 31. The first bill provides compensation for one year for some 12 million people not already covered by federal and state unemployment programs; of these, three million are expected to draw unemployment benefits.

The second bill provides additional benefits for up to 13 weeks to those already receiving compensation. An estimated 66 million out of the country's 95 million work force are currently protected by state-run unemployment schemes.

They are already eligible for compensation—usually less than half-pay—for 26 weeks, paid out of state funds. Payments for a further 13 weeks, paid jointly by state and federal governments, come into force in times of high unemployment. Now with the new emergency benefits, all paid for by Washington, these people are eligible to receive benefits for a total of 52 weeks.

Since unemployment insurance was introduced by President Franklin Roosevelt in 1935 it has been in the hands of the states. The money is provided by state taxes levied on the employer and is kept in individual state trust funds by the Treasury. They totalled $11 billion in October last year.

However, with 7.5 million people now out of work and with 4.7 million drawing unemployment benefits in the middle of January, many states are finding themselves running out of money to pay the unemployed and are having to ask Washington to bail them out.

The average benefit for the unemployed is $63 a week but there are wide variations from state to state. In Hawaii the average benefit is as high as $72 a week but in Mississippi it is a mere $40. All states have a maximum benefit, which in New York is $95 a week. But as the recession takes a firm grip of the economy and more higher-paid workers find themselves out of jobs, there has been a renewed plea for improved benefits.

To this end, the Department of Labor is proposing a federal standard which would give the recipient half of his former earnings up to the limit of two-thirds of the state's average income.

"I don't understand. It used to fit perfectly!"

Recession will be long and deep

WASHINGTON (LENS)— The leap in America's unemployment last month to 8.2 per cent, up from only 5.8 per cent last September and the highest since 1941, adds grim realism to the five-year outlook President Gerald Ford has sent to Capitol Hill last week.

After 1976, the outlook paints a bright picture: growth at 6½ per cent a year and, by 1980, price inflation down to 4 per cent and unemployment to 5½ per cent. But these are not forecasts of probable conditions. They are what the Administration would wish for.

The hard forecasts for this year and next, of what it thinks will actually happen, are much more gloom.

For this year the assumptions are: 1) recession will bite harder than last year; 2) price inflation will increase, not abate (year-on-year); and 3) unemployment will average 8.1 per cent.

The last figure looks too optimistic now that unemployment has already exceeded it in the first month. Perhaps the Administration is assuming that unemployment will peak out well above 8.2 per cent, and then come down?

Also, corporate profits are expected to plunge to $115 billion in 1975 from 1974's $141 billion—a drop in real terms of 26 per cent.

For the presidential election year, 1976, the assumptions are: 1) real gross national product will grow by nearly 5 per cent (year-on-year) but, after two years of decline, it will still be lower than it was in 1973; 2) price inflation, though abating, will still be high, close to 8 per cent; and 3) unemployment will still be as near to 8 per cent as makes no odds.

The forecast that has caused most pessimism in the United States is that the average level of consumer prices will be 11.3 per cent higher in 1975 than in 1974. Americans should not be too alarmed about this.

Since the index at the end of 1974 was so far above the 1974 average, the average for 1975 would be 5 per cent up on 1974 even if prices stood still tomorrow. So the increase over the year, from December, 1974, to December, 1975, may be much better than the annual estimate suggests.

The really worrying news—which has still not sunk home sufficiently—is just how severely the American recession has deepened in the past few months. From weakness concentrated on car-buying and some other consumer activities, it has broadened into a classical recession, characterized by sharp cuts in stocks and business investment.

Suddenly, there is no mistaking that the American economy is in its longest and deepest postwar dive. At the end of 1974 real GNP was running 5 per cent below the level a year earlier. The volume of fixed investment was nearly 13 per cent down. And consumer confidence has evaporated.

Retail sales last month were only 5 per cent ahead of January, 1974. Since prices have been inflated about 12 per cent, the volume of retail buying was down about 7 per cent, despite the big effort to attract spenders by sales bargains.

Perhaps most telling of all, the index of leading economic indicators has fallen for four consecutive months and quite sharply. If these indications are right, and they often have been in the past, the Administration's projections for output and unemployment both look insufficiently pessimistic.

Illinois farmers speak piece at forum

SPRINGFIELD— Nearly 1,000 farmers from some 66 Illinois counties, representing almost half a million acres, met last week to advise Director of Agriculture Robert J. "Pud" Williams on what is wrong with agriculture in Illinois. Williams plans to confer with national legislators and administration officials about low farm prices.

The meeting was called by Williams as a forum to allow farmers to voice their worries about the conflict between calls for greater production and potentially lower prices.

They also strongly called for the elimination of the export reporting system, which they said was limiting the export of farm products and drastically affecting farm prices.

If there was a consensus, it was that farmers were worried, and considered the problem serious. Over 80 per cent of the farmers present stated in a poll that they believed some kind of voluntary crop reduction would help.

Some of the problem areas cited were the export reporting system being used to monitor farm exports, and the feeling the present administration is "oriented toward cheap food," as one farmer stated.

In response to a call from a floor speaker for all those present to accompany Williams to Washington, the director of agriculture vowed he would urge key members of Congressional agricultural committees to "bring Washington to Illinois" to hold hearings in the state on these issues.

A livestock producer called for the government to expand the school-lunch program to include more meat products, not be cut back as has been proposed. He urged a "hard look at imports," to put red-meat producers where they can compete with foreign markets without any restrictions.

Dave Gaines, a farmer from Marion County, responded to the remark of Sen. Jacob Javits last year when he said the cancellation of the Russian wheat sale would lower the price of food. On Oct. 3, 1974, Gaines said, the price of a 1 1/4-pound loaf of bread had risen to 49 cents, with the price of wheat in his bin at $5 per bushel. By Feb. 3, 1975, the price of that same loaf of bread had risen to 57 cents, but the price he would receive for wheat in his bin at that time had dropped to $3.75 per bushel.

Farmer "Stony" Adkin reminded those present that the Congress reflected the "one-man, one-vote" decision of the Supreme Court, and therefore would become more urban-oriented. As a result, he said, "Agriculture today has a greater opportunity of being made a public utility."

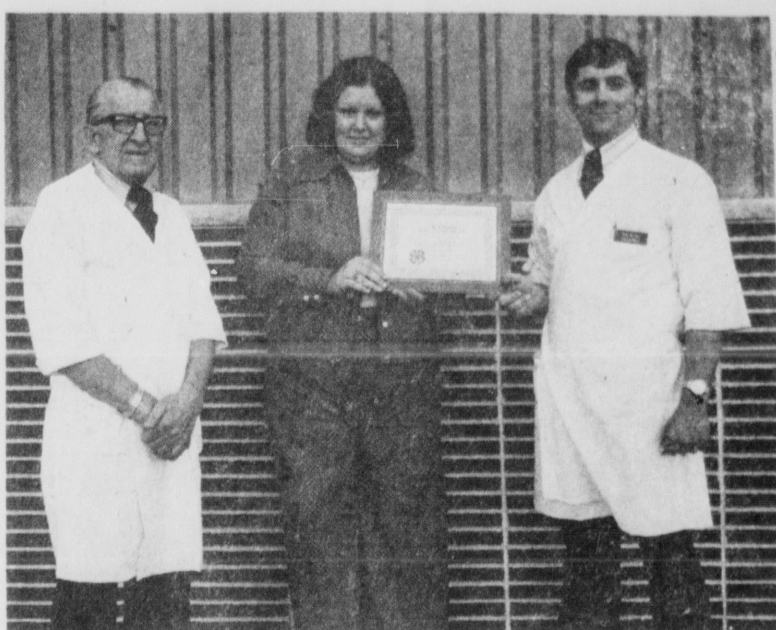

Harold Dodd, president of the Illinois Farmers Union, said his organization would "like the farmer to lay out 10 per cent of his land— put it in hay or pasture." He said he thought "it will cut production to relieve our (low) prices," and suggested good conservation practices indicate much of it should be out of production anyway.

Bill Larkin said the forum should be taken to Washington, D.C., stating "If prices go down any more, we'll go bankrupt."

Franklin County producers said, "We need reorganization." They said they wanted "full production with no export controls." An acreage restriction was their second choice. They said they felt it was "mandatory that the export controls be removed" to facilitate a free market. "If we have to put half our land away, we will, because that is what is going to happen," one said. "It's up to us to do something about it."

A speaker from Calhoun County asked how many had written letters to the President. Seeing only a few hands, he said, "We got a lot more work to do."

Other comments suggested that a closer look should be taken at the price of nitrogen fertilizer; standards should be set up for dockage for impurities in grain crops, and that controlled production should be brought into balance with controlled marketing.

Dr. C. R. Collins, left, and Dr. Rich Collins of the Dixon Veterinary Hospital, accept a certificate of appreciation for a contribution made to the Illinois 4-H Foundation. Making the presentation is Cheri Swanson, president of the Lee County 4-H Federation.

Gardening information meeting is planned

More than half of the four million 1974 Census of Agriculture report forms mailed to farms and ranches nationwide have already been completed and returned, the Bureau of the Census reports. The Bureau, part of the Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration, mailed the forms right after Christmas and this rate of return is well ahead of the rate in 1969 when the farm census was first taken by mail.

Bureau officials say that the quality of the reporting is good. Farmers who have not mailed in their completed forms can save time if they will read the instructions carefully before filling out the form. Particular attention is called to the "skip" questions at the beginning of the sections on crops and the sections on livestock, as well as for many of the individual sections. A check in the "No" box at the head of the crops section, if no crops were raised, or at the head of the livestock section, if there were no livestock or poultry operations, enables the farmer to skip individual questions in that section.

Every farmer's report form is confidential by law. No other Government agency can ever obtain or use the report made by any farmer. Only sworn Census Bureau employees who check and process the completed forms ever see them. And sworn census employees are subject to two years imprisonment or $1,000 fine, or both for disclosure of information furnished on individual report forms.

The U.S. House of Representatives Subcommittee on Census and Statistics had this to say about Census Bureau confidentiality: "There has never been a single claim substantiated that the Bureau of the Census has made individual information available outside the Bureau or that the Bureau has ever used any information received other than for authorized purposes."

The only authorized purposes are for statistical totals. Even here, the census law on confidentiality holds. Statistical tables must be published in such a way that no individual, no farm, no business can be identified. For example, suppose there is one large ranch that spreads over most of a county. No data will be published for the county that would make it possible for an informed reader to figure out confidential information about the big ranch.

The same public law that imposes confidentiality on the Census Bureau makes response by farm operators mandatory. The completed forms are to be mailed back in the postpaid, addressed return envelope enclosed with the form. The '74 Farm Census cannot be closed out until every form mailed out is accounted for; thus, the sooner the forms are returned, the sooner results can be made available. Census by mail allows operators to fill out their reports at their convenience and use their farm business records. Estimates are acceptable and should be reported in the absence of records.

West Brooklyn youth is winner in yield contest

AMBOY — Henry Halboth, West Brooklyn, has been designated a regional winner in the 4-H X-tra Yield contest announced Wayne Wubben, Extension advisor.

Henry, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Halboth, produced 162 bushel of corn per acre in the Lee County competition. His record compares to 203.5 bushels of corn per acre produced by the state winner, Renee Mennenga, Champaign.

Henry has been a member of the Compton-Brooklyn Beavers 4-H Club for six years. A few of his projects include crops, beef, management, automotive, livestock science. Henry has held several offices in his club.

The X-tra yield activity, co-sponsored by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension service and FS Service, Inc., consists of three phases: Yield, demonstration plot and scholarship program.

In addition to the yield winners, five $400 scholarships are awarded to regional scholarship applicants, and four watches to regional winners in the demonstration phase of the program.

The demonstration phase is open to all 4-H members enrolled in crops projects such as corn, soybeans, sweet corn, sorghum, oats, rye, wheat, barley, sunflowers and legumes.

Members wanting more information should contact the Lee County Extension office, Amboy.

THE ANNUAL LUNCHEON-MEETING for the KSB Hospital Auxiliary was held Thursday in the hospital dining room when Mrs. John Hyland (center) was elected new president. She will be assisted by Mrs. Arthur Johnson (left), vice president, and Mrs. Robert E. Shaw (right), secretary. Absent when the photograph was taken was the new treasurer, Mrs. Bernice Wadsworth. The new officers were installed by Mrs. Robert Marshall, and pins were awarded to auxiliary members who have served a total of 7,439 hours in volunteer hospital service. (Telegraph Photo).

KSB Auxiliary installs new officers at annual meeting

The annual luncheon-meeting for members of the KSB Hospital Auxiliary was held Thursday in the hospital dining room when Mrs. John Hyland presided in the absence of the retiring president, Mrs. Howard Hahn.

Elected as new officers were Mrs. Hyland, president; Mrs. Arthur Johnson, vice president; Mrs. Robert E. Shaw, secretary, and Mrs. Bernice Wadsworth, treasurer.

The officers were installed by Mrs. Robert Marshall, and reports were given by Mrs. Walter Kevern and Mrs. Wadsworth. Mrs. Shaw, membership chairman, reported that dues had been paid by 173 auxiliary members.

Pins for volunteer hospital service hours were presented to Mrs. Mary Spangler, 2,020 hours; Mrs. Hahn, 1,000; Mrs. Max Chonmont, Polo, 593; Mrs. Hyland, 587; Mrs. John Selgestad Sr., 562; Miss Esther Barton, 500; Mrs. Morris Rosbrook, Mrs. Elizabeth Osborn, Mrs. Leo Goy, Mrs. Juanita Anderson, Mrs. Rachel Stewart, Mrs. Henry Reynolds, Mrs. Rex Flach, Mrs. Ted Rodd and Mrs. Charles Bloyd, all with 100 service hours.

A total of 133 auxiliary members have served 7,439 hours in the hospital.

Mrs. Hyland announced the appointment of the following new chairmen: Mrs. John Sodergren, membership; Mrs. Donald Harmon, volunteer services; Mrs. Johnson, hospital gift shop; Mrs. Rodd, gift cart; Mrs. Roy DeWerff, hospital snack bar; Mrs. Al Morrison, information; Mrs. John Hambley Sr., dietary; Mrs. Marion James, Candy Strippers; Mrs. Kevern, legislative; Mrs. Marshall, publicity, and Mrs. Robert Murphy, snack bar manager.

Hospital department heads were introduced by John Tatum, hospital administrator, and he explained their various duties in relation to the reorganization of management at the hospital, which has been taking place during the past three months.

Mr. Tatum stated that 800 to 1,000 persons arrive at the hospital daily, and 40,000 persons have received hospital care during the past year—the greatest number in the history of the hospital. He also discussed expansion plans and new services to be made available in the future, and he described the effectiveness of the hospital's educational program designed to keep the personnel informed of new and future projects.

He also expressed his appreciation to the auxiliary officers and members for their assistance and interest in the hospital.

Homemakers news

By FRANCES G. REEVERTS
Lee Co. Extension Adviser
A Home Gardening Seminar will be held March 5 in Loveland Community House, Dixon, at 7:30 p.m. M. C. Carboneau, University of Illinois Extension specialist in horticulture, will preside at the meeting and answer your questions on home gardening.

All interested persons are invited to attend this meeting. "Life in the United States is changing — and fast. And it isn't surprising that some of the changes effect family members in a variety of ways."

That's how Mrs. Lynda Harriman, University of Illinois Extension child and family life specialist, explains the current difficulties some people have in holding to the more traditional family structures.

As an example, she cites the decreasing number of adults in the family that care for children. "Less than four per cent of all the United States households include both children and grandparents," she says. "And even if the grandparents live near, they prefer not to be involved in child-raising responsibilities."

Another change is the greater involvement of both parents in fulltime jobs. About 25 per cent of all United States children less than six years of age have working mothers. And one-half of the mothers in single-parent families are now in the labor force.

The boom in use of child care centers is another change. Between 1965 and 1970 the number of children in centers such as these doubled. There continues to be a greater demand than supply for such facilities. And at the same time, parents find it difficult to judge which facilities provide the most satisfactory care — and to pay for them.

The divorce rate among families with children has nearly doubled during the past ten years. In 1970 ten per cent of all children less than six years of age lived in single-parent families.

"Of course, the increased cost of living is having far-reaching effects on families," says Mrs. Harriman. "And while the effect exists at all economic levels, the greatest stress is on the lower-income families."

According to Mrs. Harriman, most single-parent families live in poverty. She adds that in 1970 the average income for single-parent families with children less than six years of age was $3,100.

Many factors contribute to the alienation of families and children. This is due to the separation of residence and business, and of child-care facilities and business.

Research reports document a trend toward less interaction between parents and children. This is sometimes termed that they are "organization children." The children are isolated from parents by organized formal and informal activities and television.

As a result, children today are more dependent on peers than before — especially in families where one or both parents are frequently gone. Mrs. Harriman says evidence indicates that children's attachment to others their own age seems to be greatly influenced by lack of attention and concern in the home than by any positive attraction of the peer group itself.

25th anniversary is celebrated

OHIO — Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson, Rt. 2, Princeton, have recently observed their 25th wedding anniversary at a series of parties.

They were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Neaveill and daughter, rural Princeton, and the honorees entertained 40 guests at a scramble dinner in their home on Valentine's Day. Guests were present from Ohio, Princeton, Bureau and from Leesville, La.

The Johnsons also hosted a party in their home Feb. 19 for 25 neighbors and relatives.

The former Miss Marjorie Matson and Mr. Johnson were married Feb. 12, 1950 in the Ohio Methodist Church when the Rev. Merle Hall officiated. They are parents of a son, Keith, a student at Bradley University, Peoria, and their daughter, Linda, is a freshman at Princeton High School.

They have farmed in Bureau County and Dover township since their marriage.

Drain the way to success

By JANET TARA
Once you have picked your pots, start planting, but remember these basics:

Drainage on the bottom of the pot is very important, particularly in containers that have no drainage holes. A one-half to one-inch layer of pebbles or crushed pottery is necessary to catch any excess water in order to keep the roots dry. Then add a layer of sterilized enriched potting soil. Place the plant in the pot with the roots loosely packed in the original soil. While holding it upright, add more soil and pack it evenly, not too hard, until it is about an inch from the top of the pot. This room is necessary for watering.

Usually it's a good idea to avoid disturbing new plants for a month or two after you buy them so they can adjust to their new surroundings. But if you purchase them in the five and dime store instead of a nursery, the soil may be less than ideal and repotting in the same size container with new sterilized soil is necessary.

Catholic Woman's Club plans meeting

A scramble dinner for members of the Catholic Woman's Club of St. Patrick's Church has been arranged for 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the cafeteria at St. Mary's School.

The guest speaker, Sister Evelyn Derezinski, R.S.M., has chosen as her topic, "Prayer From Where We Are."

She serves as chaplain at Newman Center, Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, and she is primarily in the area of counseling students and coordinating the religious education program. She received a B.A. degree in philosophy at St. Xavier College, Chicago, and a M.A. degree in sociology at Catholic University, Washington, D.C. Before coming to DeKalb, she taught sociology and was dean of students at St. Xavier College.

Club members are asked to bring discarded nylons to be donated to the craft workshops in nursing homes.

Minnie Bell Rebekah Lodge

Mrs. Billie Baker, noble grand of Minnie Bell Rebekah Lodge, presided at a recent lodge meeting in IOOF Hall when serving as pro tem officers were Miss Gertrude Cornils, Mrs. Ruth Jacobs and Mrs. Fannie Morris.

A communication was read from the president of the Rebekah State Assembly appointing Mrs. Baker district deputy president, and an additional letter expressed appreciation for a lodge donation to the State Assembly Education Foundation Fund.

Members were invited to attend a District Eight Association meeting in the Sterling Lodge Hall March 25, and a donation was made to the "Friendship Fund" of the assembly president.

A memorial service was conducted for Mrs. Laura Barnett, and Mrs. Erma Roberts announced a party for officers at 7:30 p.m. Thursday with Mrs. Baker.

Mrs. Baker directed a school of instruction, and the next meeting was scheduled for March 6 when hostesses will be Mrs. Grace Sitter and Miss Cornils.

Valentine decorations trimmed the serving table arranged by Mrs. Baker for a social hour.

Meeting for Palmyra Unit

The Palmyra Homemakers Extension Unit met recently in Loveland Community House when co-hostesses were Mrs. Warren Zimmerman and Mrs. J. A. Brady.

Mrs. Zimmerman, unit chairman, conducted a business session which included committee reports, and old valentines were displayed by members during roll call.

Mrs. Galen Willard introduced Mrs. Harold Wright and Mrs. George Canode, who presented a major lesson on "Arthritis — Our Leading Crippler."

Grange dinner and card party

A social evening for members of the Rock River Grange is planned for 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Grange Hall, when a scramble dinner will precede a card party.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I know how you feel about dope, so I'm sure you'll never print this letter but I'm going to write it anyway.

I enjoy dope. So do many thousands of other people who read your column. I'd like to tell you our side of the story.

When I'm high I feel great. I see life crystal-clear. I mean I can see life as it really is. I first started into dope because all my friends were doing it. I know I can stop whenever I want to. But why should I? Just because it's against the law? Hell no. The only way dope can ruin your life is if you become addicted to it. But that will never happen to me so I'm not worried.

Why do you knock dope when you don't even know what a high is? I suggest that you try it or button your lip. —Sailing In The Air

Dear Sailing: First, about my lip. I didn't write to you, Bub, you wrote to me.

Second: Your accusation that I don't know what a high is because I've never tried dope is incorrect. I can get high on exhilarating conversation, beautiful music, or a responsive audience.

Your notion that dope helps you see life as it really is — "crystal-clear" — is the most revealing part of your letter. It proves that dope actually distorts your vision. That "high" you are so in love with is a snare and a delusion. Life, my dear, is far from crystal-clear.

Life is convoluted, unpredictable, mercurial and filled with conflict. Anyone who says life is "crystal-clear" is zonked out of his ever-lovin' mind.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an executive secretary, age 34, and married for the second time — to Tim, age 40. He was a bachelor until six months ago and was considered the town catch. I felt very lucky to get him.

Problem: I received a sizable salary increase yesterday. Tim's response: "Which one of the vice presidents are you sleeping with?"

At first I thought he was kidding, but soon I discovered he was dead serious. Tim insists that in times like these a woman just doesn't get a raise unless she is "putting out." How can I convince him he's wrong? The best signature I can think of for this letter is — Flabbergasted

Dear Flab: If you have to "convince him," he's not worth it. Obviously, one of the most important elements in marriage is lacking in yours. It's true.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's some advice in payment for some help you gave me last year. Last night at 1 a.m. I was driving home from a girl friend's house. (I am 19, female and single.) Three young guys in a souped-up Chevy pulled alongside my car at a stop light. They made some obscene remarks. I ignored them and continued on my way.

Soon it became apparent that they were following me. I tried to shake them but couldn't. I made turns without signals and darted down several side streets. They followed me.

Finally I headed for an all-night gas station. I got out of the car and called the police to convey me home. That did it. The young punks bugged off fast. Pass the word to your readers, Ann. It's a trick worth knowing. —Brainstorm

Dear Brain: Good thinking. Thanks for sharing an excellent tip.

Junior Woman's Club meeting

Members of the Dixon Junior Woman's Club were recent guests of Mrs. Leonard Larkin and her co-hostesses, Mrs. Steven Nagy and Mrs. Gene Washburn.

During a business meeting led by the president, Mrs. Daryl Stienstra, reports were given by Mrs. Kenneth Etchison, Mrs. Darrell Summark, Mrs. George Brooks, Mrs. Kenneth Gaul, Mrs. Joseph Klueppel, Mrs. Earl LeFevre, Mrs. Donald Pauser and Mrs. Marvin Speer.

Mrs. LeFevre announced plans for the club's annual "international luncheon," to be held March 13 in her home. Each year a committee of club members is chosen to plan and host the luncheon, which features the cuisine, dress and customs of a foreign country.

Mrs. Gaul announced a devotional breakfast for club members and their guests March 20, and a meeting for the board of directors was announced for 9:30 a.m. April 2 with Mrs. Robert Leslie, Lowell Park Road.

Al Hardersen, a staff member of the Youth Services Bureau, described the origin of the bureau and the services it provides for the youth of Lee County, and attending the meeting as guests were Mrs. Larry Chidley and Mrs. Frederick Poetsch.

Discard signal only chance

By Oswald & James Jacoby
The first defensive signal a beginner learns is to play an unnecessarily high card to ask partner to lead the suit in which the signal is made. Usually the high discard shows strength, but sometimes when defending against a trump contract it shows ability to ruff the suit.

Later on, he learns all sorts of suit preference and count signals that are likely to confuse him, unless he bears in mind that these only apply when it is clear that the high card isn't strength showing.

Now take a look at the East hand. Your partner, who has overcalled with one heart, opens the king against five clubs. What card should you play?

The answer is that you should play the eight and ask partner to continue. He would continue in any event, but when you follow your eight-spot play with the deuce he will lead a third heart. Dummy will have to ruff and you will score your king of trumps later.

Could this false come-on hurt you? Yes. It is possible, but highly improbable in view of South's bidding. Your only real chance to beat this contract is for your partner to have exactly what he does.

PEO Chapter to meet with Mrs. Gamel

Chapter KM, PEO Sisterhood, will meet at 7:45 p.m. Thursday with Mrs. Gerald Gamel, 1012 Myrtle Ave., and her assisting hostess, Mrs. John E. Morley.

The program will include a report by Mrs. Gene Bothe on the PEO Home, and a report on Cottey College by Mrs. Richard Lovett. The program will be followed by a "taste and try" party.

Let's Talk About Decorating All About Color

By KARLEEN BENSINGER

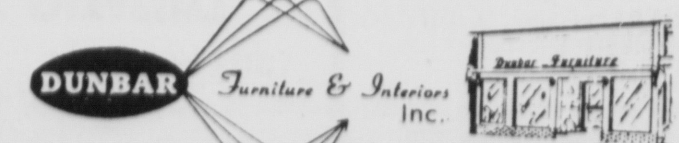

Colors mean different things to different people. Yet, certain colors seem to evoke the same feelings in almost everyone. Red, for example seems to excite most people. It gives a feeling of strength and durability. Green on the other hand, has a quiet, calming effect.

Orange is active and happy. People on the go seem to choose orange as their favorite color. Pinks suggest softness and femininity. They appeal almost exclusively to women. Brown is a down-to-earth color. It brings to mind work and serious business to most people. That is why brown is often used to decorate offices and work areas.

Black can be depressing but it can also evoke a feeling of richness or nobility. An intense yellow often implies sensuality, while a pale yellow gives a fragile impression. All shades of yellow seem to cheer people up. Maybe that is because it reminds them of sunny days.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-686: Dr. Zee was an official of our Chicago Medical Society.

"Dr. Crane," he remonstrated at a luncheon, "I think you are wrong in revealing many of the background medical facts to the lay public."

"The layman has no business dabbling with medical matters but should leave all such things to us M.D.s, for we are trained scientists!"

Idea Monopoly?

To which I most vigorously disagreed!

And rather caustically told Dr. Zee that many of our most valuable medicines were developed by laymen.

So I reminded him that when we medics couldn't treat swollen legs and ankles, due to decompensated hearts, who discovered the cure?

A simple herb woman in England who picked a dozen leaves of garden weeds and other plants!

Then she concocted a tea and gave some to those invalided men with legs as large as telephone poles.

Soon the swelling went down and the men were back at work.

But a smart young fellow helped her and decided just ONE of the dozen herbs probably was producing the cure, so he tried them, one at a time.

And when he made tea out of foxglove, he hit pay dirt.

For that's where we get digitalis, which is the greatest heart medicine now prescribed for inflamed, fast-beating hearts.

Such a rapid pulse doesn't let the heart keep up the circulation properly, so fluid oozes out of the blood vessels (dropsy) and produces those enlarged legs.

Curare, which South American Indians used to tip their arrows and darts, is now a mainstay of psychiatry in shock therapy.

Quinine, the great aid in malaria, was also developed by South American Indians from the bark of the cinchona tree.

And the most widely used medicine in the world, namely aspirin, was discovered about 400 B.C. by the ancient Greeks, who made a tea out of willow bark.

Pirria was the researcher who identified the main ingredient of modern aspirin, namely, salicylic acid.

But it was too irritating to the stomach and intestines till Adolphe Kolbe found that acetic acid (vinegar) would produce a less irritating drug called acetylsalicylic acid (modern aspirin).

Even Dr. Jenner, who started the prevention of contagious diseases via vaccination and inoculation, learned about small-pox vaccination from British milkmaids!

Morphine was derived from poppies long before medicine had evolved beyond the voodoo stage!

And our whole idea of modern tranquilizers came from the natives of India, who had long used the roots of Rauwolfia shrubs to reduce tension and high blood pressure.

Except for Dr. Fleming's discovery of penicillin, Dr. Banting's isolation of insulin from the pancreas, plus Dr. Andrew C. Ivy's extraction of an anti-cancer hormone from horse blood, very few phenomenal discoveries have actually been added to medical lore in this century by M.D. scientists.

Besides, there is no monopoly on logic, so every thinking person can be a scientist if he analyzes methodically the cause and effect relations in any field of human activity.

So send for my booklet "Common Fallacies in Logic and Political Tricks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you refer me to any information on the treatment of arthritis? Recently a relative in his late 50s developed pain in both hips which the doctors have diagnosed as arthritis. I am wondering if exercise is the best therapy or if rest, which is more comfortable, may be recommended.

I understand there is no cure, but hope the pain could be lessened. He uses a cane, so far with difficulty.

DEAR READER — Arthritis of the hip joints is a fairly common problem in men. This is usually osteoarthritis or wear and tear arthritis.

Osteoarthritis affects the weight-bearing joints most frequently, hence the hips, knees and ankles.

The various forms of arthritis are discussed in a book I wrote with La Rue Stone called, "There's Help for Arthritis." You can get a copy by writing to me in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and asking for the book. Send one dollar for the book plus 25 cents postage and handling. Or you might find it among the paperbacks at your book store.

It is important to maintain the full range of motion of all joints regardless of the type of arthritis. That is part of the objective of continued exercise. However, in osteoarthritis there is often a tendency to overdo it. Rest is equally important. Characteristically in osteoarthritis rest will relieve the pain. The use of a cane and crutches are efforts to decrease the work and help to relieve the arthritis.

A person with osteoarthritis causing pain should try to limit the amount of activity. A good program is to be up and about for only part of the day, then get the weight off the hips by lying down for a couple of hours. Remember the purpose of the exercise is only to maintain full range of motion and muscle strength. Otherwise the joint does better getting as much rest as possible. A combined rest and suitable exercise program is best.

You can get a lot of good out of some instructions from a good physical therapist or from a specialist in physical medicine.

Finally, I'd like to mention that in advanced cases of osteoarthritis of the hip joint, if necessary, the whole joint can be replaced. Hip joint replacement has progressively improved and is an important aid in treating many cases of arthritis involving the hip joint.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 10 years old. I would like for you to explain what convulsions are.

DEAR READER — They usually occur after you have lost consciousness (passed out). The brain has centers in it that control the contraction of your muscles. These start causing your muscles to contract on their own. The result is the sudden contraction and movement of the arms, legs and other parts of the body.

The contractions can be irregular with no rhythm or they can occur in a rhythmic fashion.

Convulsions can occur with a deep faint from any cause, or in the presence of a fever or a variety of disorders that may affect the brain. They are more common in children during illness with fever than in adults. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

New look at courthouse

Ready for the March 11 meeting of the Lee County Board. Desks and chairs of members have been moved from the first-floor room which the board has used for many years, to the third-floor circuit court room which will be the new meeting room. The desks now are located just outside of the court rail which separates lawyers, jurors, clerk, judge and defendants from the spectator area. New desks and chairs are ordered and when received will be permanently installed in back section of the spectator area. (Telegraph Photo)

Legal aid insurance roadblock is removed

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Bar Association has stopped its internal bickering and removed one roadblock to wider acceptance of prepaid legal insurance.

Nevertheless, it may be as long as a decade before legal insurance catches on to the majority of Middle Americans and one of the primary reasons for the delay is the current state of the economy, said an ABA official familiar with the controversy.

Prepaid legal insurance first came on the scene in 1971 with an experimental, funded program for 230 construction labor employees in Shreveport, La. The program met with success, according to ABA reports, and is operating on its own funding. It basically provides legal services worth $1,600 a year for a $33 annual payment by the worker. Other programs provide various services for payments ranging from $10 to $180 a year.

Yet in the past five years only about 20 programs have been established covering about 100,000 of America's 90 million workers, said Philip J. Murphy, an ABA staff director for the plan.

The ABA has officially favored the concept but until Monday its members were divided, sometimes bitterly, over whether a group with prepaid legal insurance should have the services of one lawyer or law firm or if members may go to the lawyer of their choice.

The question, although couched in terms of freedom of choice and antitrust, amounted to which lawyers would have access to a greater number of clientele.

At a midyear meeting, the ABA House of Delegates compromised on the question Monday, saying in effect, it makes no difference — the same rules of professional conduct, including prohibitions against advertising, shall apply for both plans.

While a spokesman for the ABA said the action was significant, other sources said the internal fight was only a small reason why acceptance of the concept has failed to catch on in the past four years.

Medical emergency course set

MALTA — Area rescue service personnel including law enforcement people and firemen are being trained to more readily to handle emergencies through a course offered by Kishwaukee College.

The Emergency Medical Technician-Ambulance (EMT-A) training class started in November with 30 students after receiving state approval.

The objective of the course is to prepare the students to complete the National Registry exam and be certified in the state and nationally as EMT's. "The course," said Rochelle Fire Chief Bill Lower, "helps us in the field of first aid and rescue. We have several more men who want to take the next section."

The Rochelle Fire Department is only one of many groups with students in the first section. The students also represent the Brumley Ambulance Service of Sycamore, the DeKalb Fire Department, DeKalb Public Hospital, Genoa-Kingston Rescue Squad, Hickory Fire Protection District, Paw Paw Clinic, Paw Paw Fire Protection District, Rochelle Police Department, Shabbona Fire District and the Waterman Fire Protection District.

4-H'ers meet

Pledges led by Billie Jo Spaine opened a recent meeting for the Petunia City 4-H Club when it was announced that Suzanne Baird was chosen as first alternate in a 4-H public speaking contest.

Volunteers for a poster contest to be held May 1 were JoAnn Sachs and Miss Baird, and introduced as new members were Vince, Elizabeth and Pam Johnson.

Evaluations on the recent Arts and Crafts Show at Sauk Valley College were given by Lynn Crawford, Laurie Crawford, Miss Spaine, Marilyn Worley, Laurie Johns, Miss Sachs, Lisa Gates, Miss Baird, Donald Baird and Michele Gates.

Demonstrations and talks were presented by Miss Spaine, Ronnie Smith, Laura Johns, Donald Baird, Diane Biggs and Betsy Appenheimer, and refreshments were served by Lisa and Michele Gates and David and Diane Biggs.

Amboy woman hurt in crash

An Amboy woman was injured Monday in a two-car accident. Tina Phillips, 42, a passenger in a car driven by Inez Schaefer, 46, Amboy, received minor injuries, police said.

The Schaefer woman attempted a left turn onto Brinton Avenue from North Avenue in the path of a northbound car driven by Norman Daraska, 37, 707 Sixth Ave. No tickets were issued.

Deaths, Funerals

Nicholas Boniface

OREGON — Nicholas G. (Nick) Boniface, 46, 903 Jefferson St., died Monday morning at KSB Hospital following a short illness.

He was born April 17, 1928, in Beverly, Mass., the son of Peter and Madeline (Tanzella) Boniface, and was united in marriage to Anita (Pat) Hamill on Nov. 24, 1953, in College Park, Md.

Boniface lived in Oregon for the past eight years, coming here from Boscawen, N.H. He was employed as a salesman for Dornier Chemical Corporation, Sifto Salt Division. He was a World War II Navy veteran and a member of the Oregon Lions Club.

Boniface was preceded in death by his father.

Survivors include his widow, Pat; two daughters, Terry and Niki, and one son, Gary, all at home; his mother, in Beverly, Mass.; one brother, Peter E. Danvers, Mass., and one sister, Mrs. Cornelius (Pam) Barry, Lynn, Mass.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. at Farrell Funeral Home with the Armin G. Weng, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Visitation will be Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the funeral home.

A memorial to Oregon Fire Department has been established in his name.

Jailed after alleged fight

Dale E. Stanford, 19, Earlville, was jailed Monday in connection with a fight in Paw Paw. Stanford was charged with battery by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies called to Paw Paw. The fight reportedly broke out during an argument between Stanford and Phil Williams. Stanford was brought to the Law Enforcement Center, where he was being held without bond pending a court appearance today.

Squirrel's dilemma

Other stories in today's news

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Carlton Stewart, the outgoing president of the National Peach Council, says federal regulatory agencies threaten to ruin the peach industry.

Stewart, of Campbell, Mo., said the Environmental Protection Agency required 27 different chemical tests for as little as a gallon of runoff water in the environmental impact statement for a packing shed.

Stewart and others speaking Monday at the council convention were sharply critical of federal controls on their industry.

"We're being hit with regulation upon regulation being imposed by people who don't even know what their own regulations are," said Vincent Cagliano of Gaffney, the incoming council president.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Influenza-related deaths dipped sharply across the country during the week ending Feb. 15, the national Center for Disease Control reports.

However, the rate of flu-related deaths remained above the epidemic threshold for the sixth consecutive week, Dr. Charles Hoke of the center's flu surveillance team said Monday.

The latest statistics showed 690 flu-related deaths in 121 major U.S. cities for the week ending Feb. 15.

That is 123 above the "expected number" established by the center's evaluation of flu activity in previous years. However, it is 126 below the peak of 816 deaths reported earlier in February.

"This year has been a mild flu year over-all," said Hoke. "We see a definite decrease in flu-linked deaths in all regions except the Mountain and New England regions."

The Mountain states, which include New Mexico, Colorado, Nevada, Utah and Arizona, remained slightly above the epidemic threshold, said Hoke.

The New England states of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island were slightly below the threshold, he said.

Prenatal clinic planned

A free prenatal clinic for expectant mothers and their husbands will be sponsored by the Dixon Junior Woman's Club and KSB Hospital from 7 to 9 p.m. March 4, 11, 18 and 25 in the hospital dining room.

Topics for discussion will be "What You Can Expect During Pregnancy and Delivery," "Preparation for Your Baby," "Your New Family at Home," "Nutrition," and "Family Planning." There will also be a conducted tour of the hospital facilities.

Interested parents are asked to register before Friday by contacting Mrs. Steve Nagy, 907 S. Ottawa Ave., Dixon, 284-3740 or 288-2601, or Mrs. Mary Helfrich, R.N., KSB Hospital, 288-5531, Ext. 210.

Parents are being asked to register for the clinic only if they expect their child before June 1, as another free clinic is planned for the month of May.

marcos interrupted a televised political broadcast he was making to announce he would meet one of the hijacker's demand for a pardon.

After being taken into custody, the hijackers met with Philippine authorities at the airport.

The leader of the hijackers claimed he had been jailed because of "planted evidence" and was asking for a complete presidential pardon.

It was not clear immediately whether the man had escaped from a prison.

An airline spokesman said the plane, with 30 persons aboard, was taken over while on a domestic flight bound for Mindanao, the southernmost Philippine island where a Moslem rebellion has raged for more than two years.

The hijacking came two days before a scheduled national referendum on Marcos' martial law presidency.

No planning meeting

There will be no meeting of the Dixon City Plan Commission on Wednesday, the normal meeting date. The next meeting will be held March 26.

It was tough going for everyone Monday in the heavy snow and this squirrel seems to be no exception. The animal is shown sitting in a bird feeder questioning up at the branch from which he had just fallen while trying to 'rob' the goodies from the bird feeder. The rodent was hanging by his tail from the limb from which the feeder is hung when something went wrong and he fell kerplop into the feeder. (Telegraph Photo)

Farmers launch crop reduction drive

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer
CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — A crop reduction movement being organized among farmers could yield higher grain prices at harvest time.

In such towns as Benton, Farina, Ullin, Woodlawn and Carlinville hundreds of farmers have pledged a 25 per cent cut in corn, wheat and soybean acreages in hope of driving up prices by keeping the supply down.

Murrel Bernard, who helped organize the movement in the Farina area, says, "There's no membership, nobody trying to be in it for the money."

"We are just trying to help America and American agriculture to stay in business with a profit that you can live with," he said. "We are just trying to help ourselves. It's a neighborhood-to-neighbor, backdoor-to-backdoor thing, just farmer-to-farmer."

Bernard, 52, runs a grain elevator at Bonnie and a 217-acre farm.

Farm costs are rising while crop prices are falling. The resulting squeeze has cut profits to near the break-even point.

It takes about $5.25 to raise a bushel of soybeans and about $2.40 to raise a bushel of corn. Prices posted at Bernard's elevator showed soybeans selling for $5.90 and corn for $2.65. Considering the time and effort involved in farming and the heavy investments required in land and equipment, most farmers don't believe the returns are adequate. If the squeeze doesn't end, farming will be unprofitable.

"Then what are we going to do?" Bernard asks.

From the farmers' viewpoint there is plenty of room for profit increase: a 15-ounce box of sugar-coated wheat breakfast cereal sells for 91 cents.

"At that ratio, now," Bernard says, "wheat should sell for $54 a bushel." At his elevator the posted price was $3.57.

There is too much grain on the market — in part because the government has restricted exports — to sustain higher prices.

"We are trying," Bernard says, "to get fellows to leave out 25 per cent of their ground in soil conservation practices, hold their input expense down. It is something that will work year after year after year and especially this year when the crops are up, the demand is down and that's the whole problem."

Earlier this month in Springfield about 1,000 farmers met at the request of the state Agriculture Department to discuss alternatives. No concrete proposals were presented and farmers voted about 6 to 1 to cut production.

So far, Bernard says, he's secured pledges of 25 per cent cuts from farmers holding 250,000 acres. And it looks as if the movement is spreading across Illinois and spilling into neighboring states.

"You all have to work together or you get strangled to death," Bernard says. "We got to get together and figure the thing out, try to work like a team. We're not wanting windfall profits or anything like that. We just want to make a decent living. We just want to make enough profit to stay in business. It's just that simple."

Rochelle woman wins Kishwaukee honors

MALTA — Debbi Kamps, 912½ N. Sixth St., Rochelle, and Ken Hayes, 4306 Amber St., Cortland, have won the 1974-75 Student Achievement Recognition Program (SARP) competition at Kishwaukee College.

Mrs. Kamps, 21, a history and political science major, and Hayes, 30, an elementary education major, were selected from among 14 entrants in the Kishwaukee College competition as the two students who have made the most noteworthy progress toward their career goals and have shown outstanding leadership qualities through participation in campus and community activities.

The young mother was very happy upon hearing of her selection. "I'm just so thrilled. It's such a great honor. When you do all these things on campus, you never think about an award. You just do them. I'm just so thrilled."

Her 3-year-old daughter, Missy, enjoys the Child Care Center on campus, one of the projects Debbi was actively involved in. Mrs. Kamps is treasurer of the Student Senate, a member of Phi Theta Kappa, Associated Parents of Kishwaukee, on the executive board of the Child Care Center and a member of the Forensics team.

The 1971 graduate of Rochelle Township High School lists her goal to teach on a community college level.

Both winners sport grade point averages around the 3.6 mark on a 4.0 scale. They will each receive a $100 cash award and a certificate of merit. Their names also will be inscribed on a school plaque.

Next month they will compete for $250 cash awards in one of six district competitions with winners from the other 47 junior colleges in the state. Twelve finalists will be chosen, one man and one woman from each district, to compete in the state finals in April for $1,000 cash awards.

Election eve protest

Hassle over mayoral salary at Rochelle

ROCHELLE — On the eve of the primary election, the Rochelle City Council meeting turned into a political rally when mayoral candidate Ralph Quest requested, "as a concerned citizen," that a motion be entertained by the council to reduce the salary of the mayor to $5,000.

Mayor Bill Cipolla told Quest there was nothing on the evening's agenda to warrant any discussion on the subject and dismissed it as a political ploy.

Street Commissioner Phil May, also a mayoral candidate, told Quest the resolution to increase salaries had been introduced several months ago, laid over for public inspection and passed by council without any objections. May felt any discussion on the eve of the primary election was out of place.

Heated discussion ensued, lasting for almost a half hour and ended with no action taken.

In the business of the meeting, the council approved Robert H. Renwick & Associates, Ottawa, to perform an engineering evaluation relative to the collapse of the 300-ton dome over the intermediate trickling filter at the Wastewater Treatment Plant, the cost not to exceed $2,000.

The council will employ the firm of Shiff-Harding & Waite, Chicago, to assist in filing a variance petition for the city of Rochelle to prepare the necessary reports that are required to meet stack emissions at the Rochelle Steam Plant to satisfy the State Pollution Board—the cost not to exceed $3,000.

The board approved participation in the 1973 Federal Highway Act in which the city of Rochelle will receive reimbursement of $16,400 for street improvements such as road markings, protective rail guards and up-dated street signs.

The total cost was estimated at $17,800 and with the reimbursement funds the city's actual cost is $1,400.

The council approved the appointments of three members to the Planning Commission, Mrs. Roberta Dombro and Joe Kroll, whose terms are to expire July 1, 1977; and Dr. Gary Hollenbeck, whose term is to expire July 1, 1975.

The council reappointed members of the Zoning Board of Appeals. They are Elmer Harms and William B. Rice, whose terms are to expire July 1, 1979.

The board heard Police Chief Winston Brass tell council members that 13 charges against the Chicago-Northwestern Railroad for crossing blockage will be heard March 21 at 3 p.m. in Judge Alan Cargerman's Court in Rochelle.

Fire Chief William Lower reported the Rochelle Rescue Truck has been built and will be on display at the fire district's annual meeting March 7, 8, and 9 at Peoria.

Students to lose food stamp eligibility

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — This is the last week that college students who are dependent on their parents for support will qualify for food stamps, the Illinois Department of Public Aid says.

New federal rules that take effect Saturday in Illinois declare a student 18 years old who is listed as a tax dependent does not qualify for food stamps, a department spokesman said Monday.

A dependent is defined as one who receives more than half of his support from someone else.

The spokesman said that eligibility for food stamps has been based in the past solely on income without regard to dependency.

An exception is made in the new regulations for students who are dependent on a household that qualifies for food stamps. Those students would be eligible to receive stamps themselves.

The new regulations were issued to comply with 1971 amendments to the Food Stamp Act.

Nearly 290,000 Illinois families and individuals participate in the food stamp program, which is administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

About $30 million worth of stamps is issued in Illinois each month, the public aid spokesman said.

Radio theft being probed

Lee County Sheriff's Deputies are continuing their investigation into the theft of a two-way radio, reported stolen from a parked car in Compton Monday, Marion T. Simpson, owner of the car told deputies the radio was pried from its holder inside his 1970 Chevrolet. The radio was valued at $125.

Pollution control change may make coal burning acceptable

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Pollution Control Board expects to consider changes in air pollution regulations which might make burning Illinois coal more environmentally acceptable, the board chairman says.

Jacob Dumelle said Monday it is time to look at existing sulphur dioxide regulations to see if they could be eased while still maintaining air quality standards.

Dumelle appeared at the first in a weeklong series of briefings for reporters on Gov. Daniel Walker's proposed budget for the 1976 fiscal year which begins July 1.

The overall budget figure will not be disclosed until Walker presents his annual budget message to the General Assembly next week.

"The time has come for a new look at the sulfur dioxide emission regulation," Dumelle said. "There have been a number of technical advances in the three years since it was adopted. And the urgency to encourage full use of Illinois energy resources has intensified in the last few years."

Illinois coal has been considered generally unusable on a large scale because of its high sulfur content.

Although the board's request of $756,300 for fiscal 1976 is only 3 per cent higher than this year, directors of two major departments said their requests would be substantially higher than this year.

Some of the increases are connected to construction projects which are proposed in Walker's $4.1 billion accelerated building program currently being considered by the legislature.

Anthony T. Dean, director of the Department of Conservation, said his request for fiscal 1976 will be $51.2 million, a 34 per cent increase over the current appropriation of $38 million.

Another substantial increase, 52 per cent, is contained in the request for the Environmental Protection Agency, Director Richard Briceland said. His agency is asking for $359.5 million, compared with $236.4 million which was appropriated for this year.

In both cases, the directors estimated that about half of the money requested would actually be spent during the next fiscal year.

In addition to the regular request for conservation, Dean said a $91 million appropriation will be requested for the Capital Development Board for construction and acquisition of parks and recreation facilities.

Other planned department activities in fiscal 1976, Dean said, include celebration of the national bicentennial anniversary, fish stocking, expansion of the youth conservation corps program and increased grants to local communities for conservation purposes.

Briceland said the priorities for EPA in the next fiscal year include increasing control over hazardous substances, improving methods of monitoring pollution and assisting local governments in development of their own pollution control programs.

The Institute for Environmental Quality, the state's environmental research agency, is requesting $1.9 million for next year, an increase of 24 per cent over this year. Most of the increase will be used to expand coal research projects.

Charges dropped against Peoria draft evader

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Good news awaits a Peoria draft evader, but his family hasn't heard from him in seven years and can't pass the word on.

The draft evasion indictment has been dropped against Thomas Rossetti, 28, who fled to Canada in late 1967.

James J. Rossetti, 61, a retired crane operator, said he thinks the government should help him find his son.

"I think that's the least they could do," he said. "But at least if they know where he is they should tell us."

"I don't know if we're ever going to hear from him again," the elder Rossetti said. "It sure has been a long time."

Young Rossetti, a Western Illinois University art student, fled the country after his request for conscientious objector status was denied by draft officials, his father said.

Rossetti was indicted in September 1968 for failing to report for induction. But last Feb. 12 a federal judge approved a government request to drop the indictment. Prosecutors took the step because the draft board gave no reason for denying the conscientious objector request.

"We have people who are spreading the word around in Canada, people that are pretty well informed as to how to spread the word," Rossetti said.

Rossetti said he has written to Canadian immigration officials but gotten no response. He also said the U.S. government still has not officially notified him that the charge against his son was dropped.

After he fled to Canada, young Rossetti wrote his parents: "I am now regarded as a criminal and a fugitive from justice simply because I didn't want to hurt anyone..."

Rossetti's last letter home was in March 1968 when he reported he was going to teach school in a remote area, his father said.

Rossetti's parents at first disagreed with their son's stand but now say they think he was right.

"After these bodies started coming back we kind of changed our mind about that," the father said.

Walnut Board approves contract

WALNUT — At a special meeting of the Board of Education of Walnut Community High School, held Feb. 18, approval was given for Wyant High School to offer a teaching contract to Diane Ellena to teach special education for the 1975-76 year according to the salary schedule in effect for Wyant High School.

The board then went into executive session to discuss teacher salary considerations for the 1975-76 school year.

The board then discussed the joint meeting with the Walnut Community Consolidated Grade School Board, to be held at the high school Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

30-day jail sentence

Larry A. Heather, 21, Ashton, was sentenced Monday to 30 days in Lee County jail following convictions on three charges. Heather pleaded guilty to charges of improper use of registration, having no valid driver's license and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He was arrested on the charges Nov. 8, 1974, by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies.

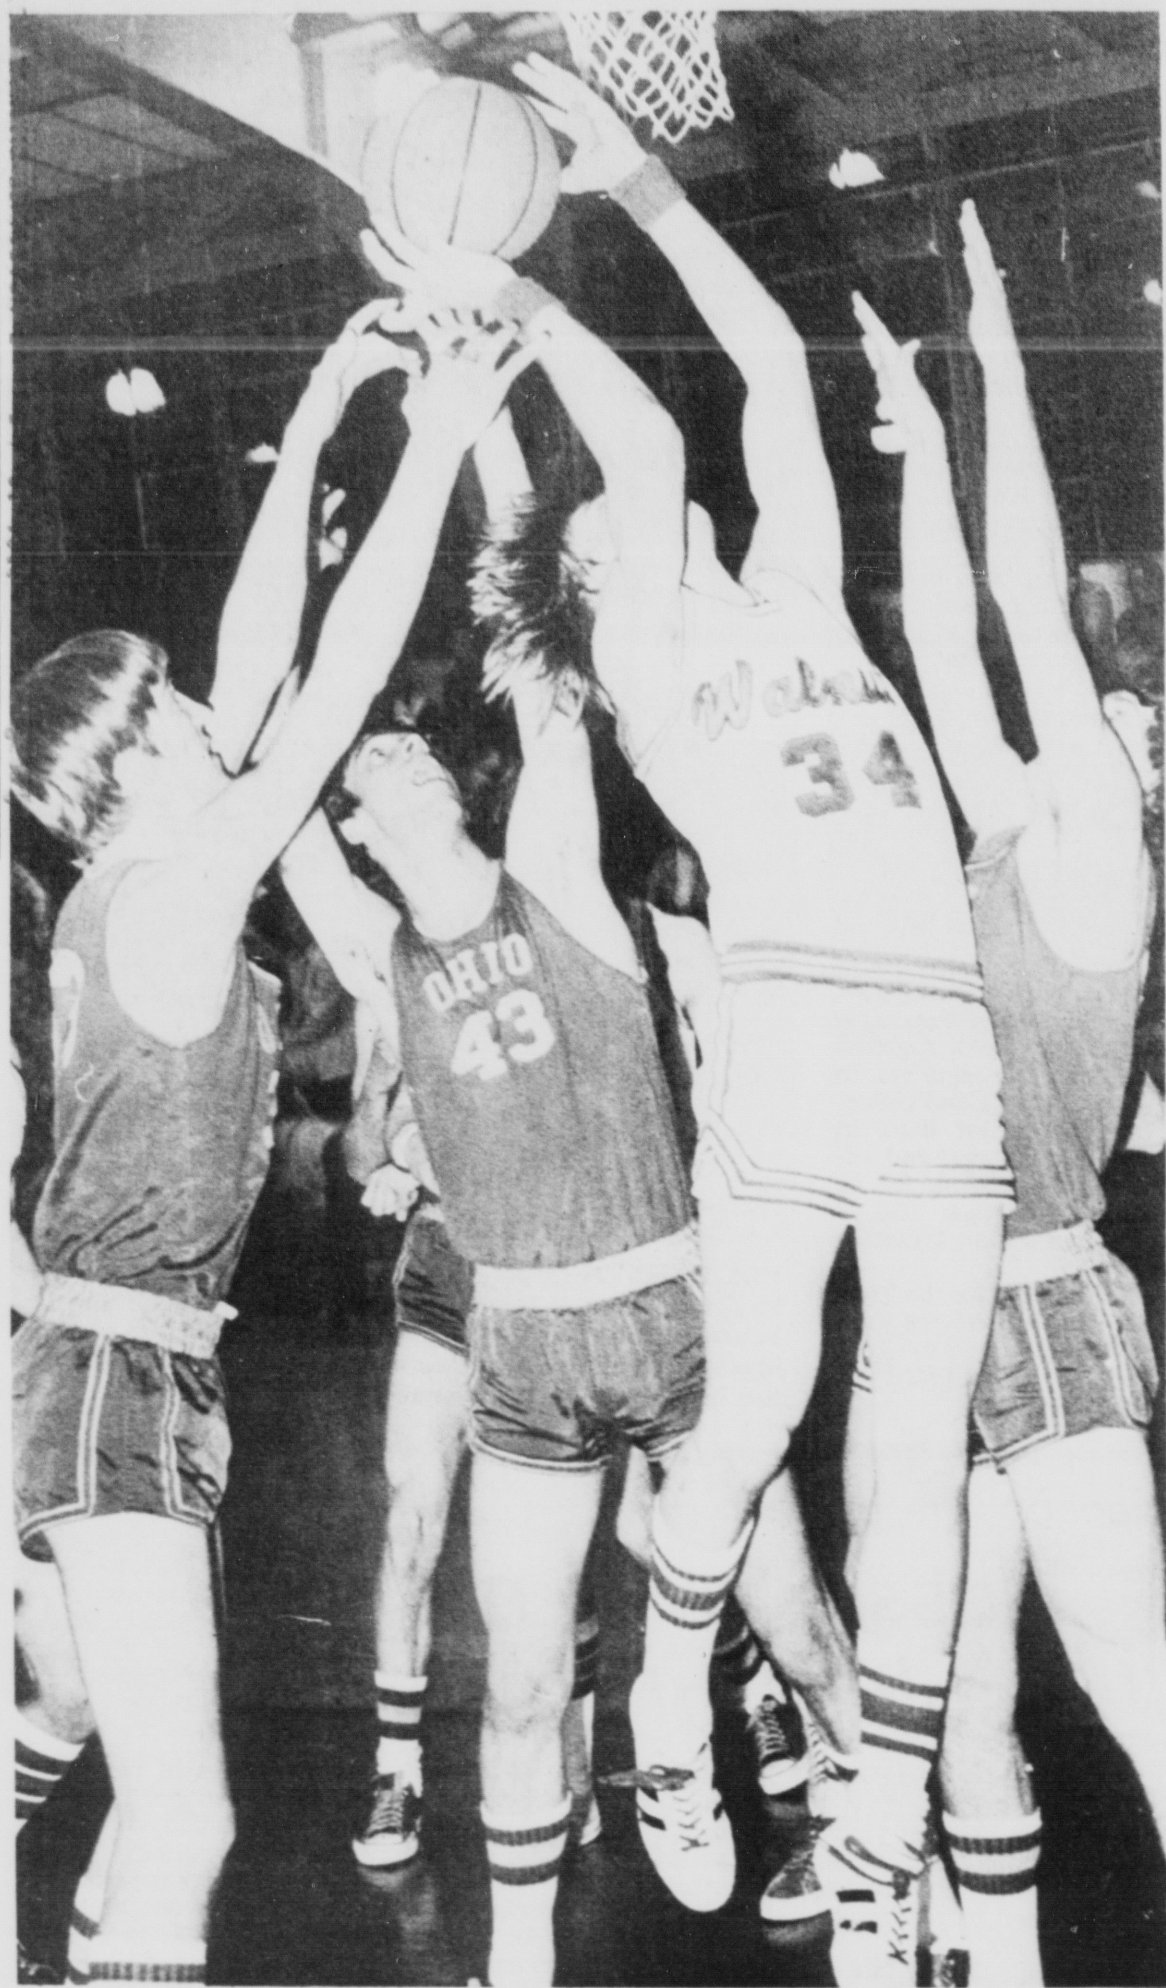

Park projects are announced

Anthony T. Dean, director, state Department of Conservation, Monday announced work on parks at Castle Rock and Shabbona are among major projects for this year.

Also $14 million has been earmarked for development of more than 150 miles of new trails and related site improvements along the Illinois and Michigan Canal and the Hennepin Canal.

SIX AND TWO adds up to a basket for the Walnut Blue Raiders Monday night at the La Moille Regional Class A Tournament. Dennis Eckberg (34) of Walnut goes up with one of his 14 offensive rebounds despite being surrounded by Ohio players Keith Yucus (left), Jim Brandau (43) and Dave Piper. Eckberg's bucket in the fourth quarter sliced the Bulldog advantage to 47-44 but Ohio held on for a 69-59 victory. Eckberg had 26 points to lead all scorers. (Telegraph Photo)

Upsets Walnut in LaMoille Regional

Fourth time is charm for Ohio

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor
LA MOILLE—Thanks to head varsity coach Dave Mead's philosophy "You can't ride a dead horse," the Ohio Bulldogs are still alive in the Class A Regional Tournament. Ohio defeated the Walnut Blue Raiders 69-59, here, Monday night to open the seven-team tournament.

In three earlier meetings this season, Walnut had captured the verdict each time. But Monday night, Ohio shifted its defensive strategy as Mead explained, "We did everything differently. We played a man-to-man defense tonight, where our defense the first three times was basically a zone."

"More Rebounding"
"We weren't successful with it (the zone) and you can't ride a dead horse, so we started (Tom) Yucus with the idea that they (Walnut) got the boards in the other games and we wanted to get more rebounding."

"Also, Tom played well versus La Moille earlier in the year and we hoped he would be reminded of it. He was great in the third quarter, well, in fact, the whole game, but it was all him in the third quarter."

Yucus accounted for six of the Bulldogs' points in the third stanza, with all of his markers coming in an eight-point Ohio streak midway through the frame to extend a five-marker lead to 42-29. Walnut retaliated with a dozen of the final 15 points of the quarter, to be down only 45-41 with eight minutes left.

Game Knotted

The Blue Raiders kept up the pace to knot the game 47-47, with 6:07 to go, as Dennis Eckberg and Dick Ganschow hit a bucket and free throw apiece to offset a Jim Brandau basket for the Bulldogs. Brandau pumped home an offensive rebound after misses by Yucus and Al Dremann at the 5:40 mark and Ohio never was headed again.

Another Brandau bucket and a Yucus free throw made it 52-47 and Walnut could never close the gap to less than three after that. Brandau, who sat on the bench with three fouls for 12 minutes of the first half and the first 5:06 of the third quarter, did not score until he canned a 20-footer with :02 to go in the third stanza.

The 6'4" junior forward then dumped in nine points in the last quarter as the Bulldogs outscored Walnut 24-18 down the stretch. And though he could score only two points in the final period, junior guard Duane Blaine made his presence known earlier in the contest.

"Blaine Sat Down"
"Blaine was the one who sat down when we started Yucus," Mead revealed. "But he came in right away and gave us good penetration on offense and got a couple of offensive rebound baskets. I was worried about losing him to fouls in the third quarter because he was the only one who was bringing the ball up-court with any success."

Blaine entered the game with 1:35 expired and got his first bucket on an offensive rebound of his own missed free throw, with 4:14 left in the stanza. Then, in the second frame, the 5'9" junior hit a fast-break lay-up, a 15-footer from the right, an offensive board of a missed Dremann effort and a pair of free throws for eight points.

The octet of markers enabled Ohio to grab a 34-25 half-time advantage after both teams notched 16 points in the first quarter. Eckberg had eight for Walnut while Mike Munger got four, with both buckets via offensive rebounds.

Three Have Four
Jim Ryan, Yucus and Dremann had four apiece for the Bulldogs. Blaine's eight helped Ohio post an 18-9 bulge in the second period. Dave Piper and Dremann collected four points each, with both of the former's being follow-up buckets. The Bulldogs were only six of 18 from the field.

Walnut hit its first four attempts, as Eckberg and Ganschow swished two each, but then did not have another basket in the final 4:38 although taking a dozen shots. Six offensive rebounds went for naught, including three in a row with just over a minute left.

Blue Raider center Gary Carter brought Walnut back to within five (34-29) with the opening two baskets of the second half. Ohio then rattled off eight unanswered markers before Walnut retaliated with 10 successive points of their own, as Eckberg converted two offensive boards, Carter netted a turn-around jump shot plus a pair of charity tosses along with two free throws by Ganschow.

A Charity Toss
Dremann finally got the 43rd point for Ohio on a charity toss before Monte Cessna of the Blue Raiders (in for Carter) and Brandau traded buckets, to make it 45-41 going into the final quarter.

Ganschow sliced the Bulldog lead to three with a charity toss, but Brandau responded with a 15-foot jump shot. Eck-berg then sandwiched an offensive rebound bucket and a free throw around a Ganschow basket to deadlock the game 47-47.

Five consecutive points by Ohio, as Brandau hit an offensive board and then a 10-footer, opened up another Bulldog margin and the Blue Raiders could never catch up, despite six points from Eckberg. Yucus had a basket and three charity tosses in the frame.

Game Statistics
Ohio finished with 24 buckets in 63 attempts, including seven for 14 in the fourth stanza. Walnut was 23 of 66. Mead singled out a couple of his players for special mention. "Al Dremann has shut off any man we've put on this year," Mead stated, "he's sometimes over-looked but he is one heck of an all-around player."

"And Jim's (Brandau) night is Wednesday. He hasn't played well against Walnut this year although he got 33 points in the first game against them. But that night, it was basically nobody else was scoring and they all looked for him. But despite him sitting out a lot of the game, the reserves came in to do a fine job. They knew they were going to get a chance to play and it's nice to go to the bench and not get hurt."

"And Dennis Eckberg deserves to be on everyone's all-star team," continued Mead. "He is just unstoppable. You have to front him. We had plans to let him shoot from out, hoping to keep him away from the inside where he picks up the loose rebounds and garbage."

Yucus Has 17
Yucus had 17 points to pace the Bulldogs. Blaine and Dremann added a dozen each while Brandau got 11. Piper had 10 boards, Brandau eight and Dremann seven. Blaine notched five assists while Dremann added four. Piper and Ryan chipped in with three each. Eckberg had 26 for Walnut. Carter and Ganschow had 12 and 11, respectively.

Dave McFadden, Walnut head varsity coach, stated after the contest, "This was the first time all year people who normally hit well could not find the basket. I guess some of the credit has to go to Ohio."

"They came out in a situation where we had beaten them three times already and they didn't want to make it four. They put the effort into it. They did a good job in their man-to-man and their pressure hurt us."

"At The Line"
"Ohio also hit at the line when they had to," McFadden added. "We didn't. Actually, we have been shooting poor at the line the last three games and tonight made it four in a row. As a team, we had been shooting 65 per cent from the line for the season but the last four games, we've gone sour." Ohio hit 21 of 30 free throw opportunities on Monday, while Walnut was only 13 of 28.

"Eckberg had a super game. He had 18 rebounds with 14 of offensive and I don't think there is anybody around who can rebound with him. The looseness of the game helped Ohio and when they started their big kids, we had a tough time matching up in certain areas. We could go four-on-four but we got hurt with the fifth matchup."

The Blue Raiders pulled down 27 offensive boards for the evening, with Eckberg getting more than half. Overall, Carter had eight rebounds, Munger seven and Ganschow six. "Our man-to-man got us back in position late," McFadden commented, "but we just couldn't get the one bucket we needed."

"The Best Record"
"But the kids have got nothing to be ashamed of. This is the best record of any Walnut team since 1966-67 and these kids worked as hard as any group I've had. All the fans figured we were going to win this one," he added, "because we had already beaten them three times this year. But I worried more about this game than any one I have all year and I guess there was need to."

The Blue Raiders finished the season with a 15-10 record. Ohio, now 16-8, meets the number-one seeded Amboy Clippers at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday. Tonight's games feature New- man and La Moille at 7 and Franklin Center versus Malden at 8:30.

Knights dominate

By The Associated Press
From start to finish, Chicago Christian dominated the Associated Press Class A Illinois High School Basketball poll.

The Knights, carving a 23-1 record, finished on top in the final poll of the season by grabbing 18 of 20 first-place votes from the panel of 20 sports writers and broadcasters for a total of 318 points.

The defense-oriented Knights suffered their only loss to Aurora Central Catholic early in the season but avenged the defeat two weeks ago with a 57-45 triumph. They closed the regular season with a 58-25 triumph over Walther Lutheran last Friday night.

Venice, 23-2, finished second and picked up one first place vote and a total of 282 points. The Red Devils closed the regular season by pounding St. Henry's 73-44 and Wood River 84-59. Metropolis, which had been third most of the season, dropped to sixth in the final poll after a 60-54 upset loss to Eldorado last week.

Finishing third was Teutopolis with 247 points on the strength of a 21-1 record. The Wooden Shoes finished with a 69-57 victory over Newton.

A pair of undefeated powers were next in line. Buda Western, 24-0, received the other first place vote and finished fourth with 246 points, one less than Teutopolis. Nokomis, also 24-0, was fifth with 227 points.

Metropolis finished sixth with a 23-2 mark followed by Madison, 17-5. Madison had the misfortune to lose to Granite City North and Mt. Zion, both Class AA teams.

Vienna remained No. 8 with a 20-2 mark with Sparta finishing 10th at 20-2.

Quincy Catholic climbed to 11th with a 15-8 record followed by Mt. Pulaski at 22-1. Peru St. Bede moved up a notch to 14th followed by undefeated Chicago University High with a 22-0 mark.

Eldorado rounded out the top 16 on the strength of its upset victory over Metropolis. Eldorado, an also-ran most of the season, finished with a 17-7 record.

Oregon overcomes Ashton 63-54

By TIMOTHY LYON
Telegraph Sports Writer

BYRON—There is a saying that states that something is better the second time around—well, it isn't so sure if it was better or not, but the Oregon Hawks 63-54 win over the Ashton Aces, here, Monday night seemed to be the second time around. That is, the Hawks' win Monday was very similar to their victory over Ashton Saturday night. As with Saturday's game, Oregon won its first game of the Byron Class A Regional Basketball Tournament with a very strong aggressive defense.

The Hawks were very successful in closing off the middle and intimidating the Aces—forcing them to the outside shots. At least this was the case in the first half. In the second, Ashton was able to play even ball with Oregon, but the Hawks had built up too large of a lead for the Aces to catch them.

Though both offenses were clumsy at times, Ashton seemed particularly plagued by this problem. Their shooting was not the best and this was accentuated by Oregon's strong hold on the boards and a reliance to the outside shots.

The first period was by far Oregon's best as it outscored the Aces 20-7. Both teams started slowly, but the Hawks quickly came alive and pulled ahead. Oregon's zone was very effective in shutting off almost all of Ashton's shots. The Hawks had an unbroken 10-point scoring run in the last 2 1/2 minutes. Two buckets were hit from the corner by Pat Donahue and Dan Herriot, and two free throws apiece were made by Donahue, Herriot and Mike Blake. Ed Heckman and Ray O'Dell kept the Aces alive in the first quarter.

Ashton warmed up in the second quarter and had more effect against the Hawk zone. They played them bucket for bucket as they tied with 15 apiece in the second. The Aces weren't penetrating much better, but they picked up on the long shots and established a hold on the boards. Ashton was also aided by seven points from the line. It took 11 cracks to get the seven, however. Mike Caldwell had four of the eight points from the floor. Donahue spurred the Hawks with six points in the second quarter. Two of his baskets were fast-break lay-ups.

The Aces were still down by 13 (35-22) at the half; however, they couldn't crack the Oregon lead.

The third period was Ashton's best as it outscored the Hawks 19-16. This was partly due to the increased effort by the Aces. They were in hot pursuit of the ball at all times, and caused quite a few turnovers. The Oregon defense also didn't seem as tight as it had in the first half. The Aces were making more shots from inside the zone.

Again, both offenses seemed a bit confused, but Ashton managed to take advantage of the confusion. The Aces were also beginning to hit more of their free throws. Oregon, in turn, shot more from the outside in the third quarter, hitting three of five baskets from behind the baseline.

The last quarter didn't have as good a play, primarily because both teams sent in substitutes. The Hawks, with their sizable lead, naturally sent in more and the Aces were given plenty of shots from the charity stripe. They could only make three of their nine foul shots, however. Heckman sank three of the Aces' five field goals, all from the outside. The Hawks' buckets were distributed evenly among the team.

From the line, the Hawks shot much better, hitting 15 of 18 attempts for 83 per cent. The Aces, on the other hand, could only connect with 16 of their 30 foul shots to give them a percentage of 53.

Donahue was the high scorer for the Hawks with 21 points. He was followed by Herriot with 14 and Blake with 10. Top scorer for Ashton was Caldwell with 15. Heckman scored 12 points and O'Dell had 10.

Sport Notes

Pinegar is selected

Bob Pinegar has been selected to be included in the Prep All-America Football Yearbook, 1974-75, as announced today by Coach & Athlete magazine and Coach Sam Applebaum, Dixon High School.

These athletes were nominated last December and representative of the most outstanding football players in their school and community.

Nominations for the Prep All-America Football Program are made each year by high school coaches, sportswriters and college recruiters across the country. Upon receipt of his athletic record, each nominee is included in the Prep Football Yearbook and each was considered by the judges for Coach & Athlete's Prep All-America Football 100 Team. This national all-American team (as chosen by the Awards Selection Committee) will name the country's top 100 high school football players. Announcement of the All-America 100 Squad will be made at the end of this month.

Criteria by which the local athletes were nominated for the program include athletic ability, statistics based on outstanding performance, and sportsmanship and personal leadership displayed during the current season. The athletic achievements of the local nominees will be presented in the 1974-75 edition of the Prep Football Yearbook to be published in July.

Sponsored by Coach & Athlete magazine, Prep All-America Football is an annual sports awards program. The purpose of the program is to promote and encourage sports achievements and individual athletic ability on the local level as well as on the national level. Heading the Awards Selection Committee that will name the top 100 high school football players is Dwight Keith, editor of Coach & Athlete.

Bureau Valley All-Conference

Two Walnut Blue Raiders and a pair of Ohio Bulldogs have been named to the Bureau Valley All-Conference Basketball Team for the 1974-75 season. Voting was conducted on Saturday.

Senior Al Dremann and junior Jim Brandau were the Bulldog players named to the 10-man squad. Walnut is represented by seniors Dennis Eckberg and Gary Carter. Rounding out the team are La Moille seniors Gary Cogdal and Chuck Barkman, Tampico junior Steve Bringer, Wyand senior Mike Palmer, Malden junior Dan Carlson plus Manlius junior Audie Ridiger.

Penn Central is biggest bankrupt in U.S. history

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "What a mess we're in," says a spokesman for the Penn Central railroad, the biggest corporate bankrupt in American history.

Every month since it went into bankruptcy court in mid-1970, in a continuing futile effort to reorganize, the nation's largest transportation system has operated in the red.

Its debt, now $2.5 billion, grows daily by nearly half a million dollars. And every year its trains keep running only with generous infusions of government cash.

Those federal grants and loans already total $178.7 million. And now Penn Central says it needs $322 million more to continue operating for another 12 months. That's when it is to be merged with six other bankrupt railroads into a single, semi-public system stretching from Chicago to Boston.

"We're in plenty, plenty trouble," the spokesman said. "But all the bankrupt railroads are in the same fix. We're worse off because we're bigger."

The other financially troubled roads in the Northeastern-Midwestern corridor are Erie Lackawanna, Central of New Jersey, Lehigh Valley, Lehigh & Hudson River, Boston & Maine, and the Reading. Together, they run over 10,000 miles of track, a fourth the size of Penn Central.

Not all agree with the Penn Central spokesman on their viability.

"Our cash is pretty good now," said Gloria Stone of the Boston & Maine. "We've just paid back some old loans we took from the U.S. We're fighting to remain independent of Conrail and we're fighting to keep our heads above water."

Reading, its last profitable year in 1966, has been in the black the past four months and trying to improve even more.

The Penn Central blames its current critical position on last year's coal strike, the terrific drop in auto traffic and the recession.

"It hit us like a thunderclap last November, and keeps getting worse," the spokesman said, noting the just announced December loss skyrocketed to $41 million, or 58 per cent higher than a year ago.

The U.S. Railway Association, formed by Congress to revamp the struggling lines into Consolidated Railway System—Conrail, is scheduled to unveil its preliminary plan Wednesday in Washington. A final draft probably will reach Congress by August.

Meantime, Penn Central has to keep rolling along, if it can, on deteriorating tracks and over crumbling roadbed which has resulted in thousands of derailments since 1969.

To make all the necessary repairs would take an estimated $1 billion, maybe more, which Penn Central doesn't have and can't borrow.

Earlier this month the railroad threatened to cease operations at the end of February because it couldn't meet its payroll and sought help from Congress. The House came up with an emergency $125 million appropriation and the Senate was expected to pass a similar bill.

Halting the Penn Central would have a violent effect on the economy because the railroad serves nearly every major industrial plant in the Northeast.

When the Pennsylvania and the New York Central joined in 1968 it was the biggest business merger ever put together in the United States.

The $6.5-billion system created the biggest privately owned transportation system in the world with 40,000 miles of track, 4,200 locomotives, 4,950 passenger cars, 195,000 freight cars and 105,000 employees—since trimmed to 78,000.

Efforts to slim it down, by abandoning losing routes, failed. Affected states and local communities fought cutbacks even in areas where trains were used sparsely.

Penn Central officials partly blame this for the unending red ink in the railroad's annual statements: $91.6 million in 1969, $425.7 million in '70, $560 million in '71, $222.8 million in '72, $172.6 million in '73 and $198 million last year.

And the price the taxpayers have been paying to keep this vital transportation system going also is the biggest government subsidy to a private company in the nation's history.

In Conrail, Penn Central lines are expected to be sharply trimmed, with most duplicated and money-losing branches eliminated.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, Feb. 25, the 56th day of 1975. There are 309 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1793, heads of the various U.S. government departments met with President George Washington at his home. It was the first recorded Cabinet meeting.

On this date — In 1783, Denmark recognized the independence of the United States.

In 1901, J.P. Morgan incorporated the U.S. Steel Corp. in New Jersey.

In 1913, the 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution went into effect, giving Congress the authority to levy income taxes.

In 1919, Oregon became the first state to tax gasoline.

In 1927, inhabitants of the American Virgin Islands were granted U.S. citizenship.

In 1956, Nikita Khrushchev went before a Communist Party congress in Moscow and denounced the late Soviet dictator, Joseph Stalin.

Ten years ago: Pope Paul VI conferred the cardinal's insignia on 26 new princes of the Roman Catholic Church at St. Peter's Basilica.

Five years ago: President Georges Pompidou of France told the U.S. Congress a quick solution to the Middle East problem should be sought through a four-power conference at the United Nations.

One year ago: President Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach, pleaded guilty in Federal court in Washington to charges that he had promised an ambassador a better assignment for a $100,000 dollar campaign contribution.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator John McClellan of Arkansas is 79. Former Beatle George Harrison is 32. British actor Tom Courtenay is 38.

Thought for today: Ignorance never settles a question — Benjamin Disraeli, British prime minister, 1804-1881.

University figures show that "In-Bin" drying costs are 2¢ per bushel less than any other method being used today. These figures are based on equal drying situations, with all fixed and variable costs considered. The farmer who dries 50,000 bushels of grain per year can acquire 20,000 bushels of storage, FREE every 5 years.* Let your mfs center tell you more about drying and storing your grain. *Plus concrete and erection.

Buying More Land?

The Land Bank is a good place to get your money!

Buying that farm without delay might seem a lot more practical with financing through The Federal Land Bank. Today's expensive land is easier to pay for when its cost is amortized over extra years with a long-term Land Bank loan. And you can prepay your Land Bank loan anytime—without penalty.

Why not discuss your plans with us? We know land values and will probably be able to help you come up with a realistic way of buying the land without unnecessary delay.
